

GERMANY UPHOLDS SINKING OF FRYE

Berlin Government Reiterates Previous Justification of Course

ACCEPTS U.S. PROPOSAL

Agrees to Plan to Have Two Experts Fix Damages, Each Country to Select One

ARGUES FOR GERMAN VIEW

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—Germany is unyielding in her refusal to concede that the sinking of the American sailing ship William P. Frye by the auxiliary cruiser Prinz Eitel Friedrich in the South Atlantic last January was a violation of American rights under the Prussian-American treaty or international law. Reiterates a Previous Justification. In reply to the last representations of the United States, the German foreign office, in a note made public here tonight by the state department, reiterates a previous justification of Germany's course, declares again her willingness to pay for the ship and accepts a proposal first advanced by the United States—that the amount of damages be fixed by two experts, one to be selected by each country.

Such a sum the German government pledges itself to pay promptly with the stipulation, however, that the payment shall not be viewed as a satisfaction for violation of American rights. Should that method be unsatisfactory, Germany invites the United States to arbitration at The Hague.

The unofficial view here is that reparation by a commission of experts probably will be satisfactory to the United States with the express provision however that it is no a waiver of treaty rights for which the American government contends, but applies only to the matter of damages.

It is practically certain that if the United States allows the dispute to go to The Hague for interpretation of the treaty provision or continues the academic discussion of principles through the channel of diplomacy, it will insist that, meanwhile, Germany refrain from violation of what the United States contends are its rights.

Take Precisely Opposite Views. The entire note revolves about Article Thirteen of the Prussian-American treaty of 1799 which was revised and included in the treaty of 1828. That article, the United States contends, specifically protected the William P. Frye from being sunk, although it did not protect a contraband cargo. Germany takes precisely an opposite view, contending that the article only obligates her to pay damages. Furthermore, Germany replies that as the Frye's cargo of wheat destined to England was contraband, the ship was liable to confiscation and that as an attempt to take the prize into a German port would have imperiled her, the destruction of the Frye "was according to general principles of international law."

"The right of sinking," says the German note, "is not mentioned in the treaty and is therefore neither expressly permitted nor expressly prohibited, so that on this point the party stipulations must be supplemented by the general rules of international law. It is not disputed by the American government that, according to the general principles of international law, a belligerent is authorized in sinking neutral vessels under almost any conditions for carrying contraband."

Argues for German Interpretation. The note argues at length for the German interpretation of the disputed treaty provision, contending that its intent is to establish a reasonable compromise between the military interests of the belligerent contracting party and the commercial interests of the neutral party.

"On the one hand," says the note, "the belligerent party is to have the right to prevent the transportation of war supplies to his adversaries, even when carried on vessels of the neutral party; on the other hand, the commerce and navigation of the neutral party is to be interfered with as little as possible by the measures necessary for such prevention and reasonable compensation is to be paid for any inconvenience or damage which may, nevertheless, ensue from the proceeding of the belligerent party."

Would Not Affect Question of Rights. That, in short, is Germany's argument, based on her interpretation of the treaty and to that, the view of the United States is squarely opposed. Payment for the Frye in the manner suggested would not affect the question of rights under the treaty.

A German prize court on July 10 held the Imperial government for damages but fixed no amount since the United States declined to become a party to the proceeding, de-

LONE BANDIT ROBS BANK OF $20,070

FORCES PAYING TELLER, AT POINT OF GUN, TO TURN MONEY OVER

Robbery of Cedar Rapids, Ia., National Bank Takes Place at 7 O'clock in the Morning—Bandit Locks Teller Behind Steel Gate of Vault and Escapes.

Cedar Rapids, Ia., Aug. 4.—The most daring bank robbery in the history of the state occurred at 7 o'clock this morning when L. L. Perrin, paying teller of the Cedar Rapids National bank, was forced to deliver $20,070 of the bank's funds to a lone bandit at the point of a gun.

Locks Teller in Vault. Following the robbery the bandit locked Perrin behind the steel gate of the vault and made his escape through the spring-latched street doors. The teller was released some minutes later by arriving employees and an alarm given, and tonight local, bank association and insurance detectives are scouring the city and state, but without a clue as to the robber.

Perrin was alone in the banking rooms when the robbery occurred, although in the transit department, on the floor above, clerks were already at their desks. Having opened the main door to the vault the teller turned to his case and found himself confronted by the bandit and the leveled gun. He was then compelled to open a smaller safe containing $60,000 in currency and stand by while the man filled his pockets with thousand dollar packages.

Perrin in a Hospital. Tonight Perrin is in a local hospital, his mind temporarily unbalanced by the ordeal.

Aside from the meagre description which the hysterical teller was able to furnish the police, there is not a clue upon which to hinge a case. Detectives believe that the robber secreted himself in the basement of the bank during the Tuesday banking hours and waited through the night to commit the robbery, for the doors of the institution had not been opened for the day's business and entrance from the street without a key was impossible. Remodeling of the bank building, however, would make it a comparatively easy matter for the man to have entered unnoticed during the day and have hidden himself behind the storage of the basement.

A final check of the bank's funds showed the robber obtained a total of $20,070.

DUNNE TO SUMMON TWO DENTAL BOARD MEMBERS ON GRAFT CHARGES

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Aug. 4.—Gov. Dunne, home at midnight tonight from his trip with the official party to the western seaboard, indicated strongly that his first official act tomorrow will be to summon two members of the state dental examiners' board to Springfield to show cause why they should not be removed from membership of the board.

The two board members under fire for alleged grafting are N. W. Cox, of Cairo, and B. A. Smith, of Champaign.

James H. Burdett, president of the state civil service commission, made the investigation which led to the report which Gov. Dunne read on his way home, and on which he bases his action. Certain transactions of a gross nature are involved in the charge against the two men.

WILSON GIVES MUCH THOUGHT TO NATIONAL DEFENSE QUESTION

President Plans to Make Issue One of the Principal Subjects of His Next Message to Congress.

Cornish N. H., Aug. 4.—President Wilson is planning to make national defense one of the principal subjects in his next message to congress.

While he will not decide definitely on the policy he will ask congress to approve until after he has received the reports requested from Secretary Garrison and Daniels. It became known today that he already has given much preliminary thought to the question.

He has planned to receive the formal reports from the two secretaries when he returns to Washington. While the president will make recommendations to congress on other subjects, the discussion of national defense is expected to attract most attention. He is expected to devote more time to the preparation of this portion of his message than he usually does to general recommendations.

THREE DIE IN FIRE

Dolevan, Wis., Aug. 4.—Fire of an unknown origin caused the death of three children, aged 3, 6 and 9 years, of the Brand family, of Racine, Wis.

The blaze was discovered at 10:30 o'clock tonight. It started in one of the cottages three doors from the Highland Hotel and before the local fire department arrived eight cottages were destroyed.

GEN. SCOTT ORDERS TROOPS TO EL PASO

Directs Battery of Fifth Field Artillery to Proceed from Fort Sill, Okla.

TO HOLD CONFERENCE

Complete Plans for Discussion of Mexican Problem With Latin-American Diplomats

CALLES ATTACKS NOGALES

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—Unusual activity in the war and navy departments was evident today and an order from Gen. Scott, chief of staff, directing a battery of the field artillery to proceed from Fort Sill, Okla., to El Paso, Tex., aroused considerable surprise. At the war department it was stated the artillery was ordered at the request of the state department.

At a Loss to Explain Attack. No official information concerning the reported bombardment of the Mexican border town of Nogales was received. Gen. Carranza had assured the state department and officials were at a loss to explain the reported action of Gen. Calles, a Carranza commander whose guns were said to have opened fire on the town.

Gen. Funston, commanding all the border troops, has standing orders to reply to the fire of the Mexicans if bullets fall in American territory. Officials believe he would act promptly to protect American lives and property. Army officers said a general assault on the Mexican town could not avoid endangering those on the American side of the border.

Will Hold Conference. Even should Gen. Funston be compelled to open fire, it was stated, plans for tomorrow's conference would be carried out. The ordering of fresh troops to the border generally was regarded as a part of the administration's determination to be prepared for any eventuality in its determination to restore order in Mexico. El Paso it was asserted, had been without a battery of artillery for several months and it was deemed wise to strengthen the forces at that important border point.

Plans for tomorrow's conference at the state department on the Mexican problem were completed today after Secretary Lansing had talked to President Wilson at Cornish, N. H., over the telephone. Proposals that are to be made to the six Latin American diplomats whose governments have authorized them to cooperate with the United States to end Mexico's civil war were discussed. Secretary Lansing maintained silence as to the program outlined.

Lansing Confers With Fuller. Mr. Lansing conferred with Paul Fuller one of the president's confidential advisers, on Mexican affairs, who will participate in the conference. Mr. Fuller recently talked personally with one of the faction leaders in Mexico, observing the situation for the president.

Although administration officials have given no hint of what is to follow the conference, the army and navy have been preparing for any service they may be called upon to render. Secretary Lansing conferred at length yesterday with Secretary Daniels before the latter's departure for Asheville, N. C. The purpose of the conference was not disclosed.

The first step to be proposed tomorrow will be the issuance of a final appeal to leaders of the fighting factions, it is believed, refusal of any leader to join in a peace conference to be followed by an arms embargo against that faction. It will require military activity to enforce such an embargo, some officials believe, even if actual intervention is not contemplated.

Calles Attacks Nogales. Nogales, Ariz., Aug. 4.—A Carranza force under Gen. P. Elias Calles today attacked Nogales, Sonora, held by a Villa force under Gov. Maytorena and may occupy the town tonight although Maytorena has ordered his men to resist to the last.

A regiment of United States infantry, two troops of cavalry and a machine gun platoon lined the border to check any invasion of American soil by the Mexican factions. The American soldiers said they had orders to fire the moment bullets flew into American territory. An occasional Mexican bullet did cross the border but not in the vicinity of the town.

The Villa troops advanced this morning from Mascaras ranch, ten miles south of Nogales, where they had defeated the larger part of Maytorena's troops last night. The vanguard of Calles' cavalry appeared at the head of the pass three miles from Sonora about noon, catching Maytorena with only 800 infantry and 200 cavalry in the town.

Forces Maytorena Into Town. The Villa commander rushed all his available men to the pass thrown up by hastily built entrenchments, checked the Carranza advance guard with machine gun fire. Calles, however, hastily brought up his own machine guns and posting a Hotchkiss field gun on a hill commanding the Villa position forced Maytorena to withdraw to the shelter of the town where he took position along the border.

Americans crowded the hills on the Arizona side to watch the fighting.

Chicago, Aug. 4.—Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, today viewed the capsized steamer Eastland, which is about to be placed on its keel, and tonight announced that organized labor would conduct an independent investigation of the catastrophe. Mr. Gompers said no definite plans for a labor inquiry had been made, but was of the opinion that it should not be merely punitive, but preventative of a repetition of similar accidents.

Investigation of the capsizing of the steamer with a loss of from 900 to 1,000 lives went on today. Secretary of Commerce Redfield decided to continue the hearing before the steamboat inspection service board instead of returning to Washington at once. The federal grand jury heard several witnesses, but did not indicate when it would report.

KNOWN DEAD IN ERIE FLOOD IS TWENTY-SEVEN

CORONER BELIEVES WRECKAGE CONCEALS AS MANY MORE VICTIMS

Property Loss is Placed at $3,000,000—Three Hundred Houses and Fifty Store Buildings Are Demolished—Relief Funds Are Started.

Erie, Pa., Aug. 4.—Erie had 27 known dead tonight in the mile long wreckage strewn path through the heart of the city, swept by last night's flood. But little impression was made on the vast amount of wreckage piled in places 100 feet high and believed by the coroner and others to conceal as many more victims. The work of recovery will be slow. It may take a week to turn over the debris.

Property Loss $3,000,000. The early estimate of property loss, placed at $3,000,000 was not changed today by Fire Chief McMahon after he had received reports from big manufacturing plants in the flood zone. He said that 300 houses and 50 store buildings were demolished.

The Lake Shore Railroad at noon was able to resume its through passenger service between New York and Chicago, 35 trains stalled on the outskirts of this city since early last night getting away.

Three morgues were besieged by thousands through the day. Men, women and children watched the searchers and when they saw a body uncovered would rush to the morgue to which it was taken to learn if it was that of a missing one. Then all but a few would return to their vigilance. All the department stores and business houses on State street were closed and the people opened their hearts and purses to the flood sufferers. Relief funds were started, charitable societies sent food and the city authorities opened houses for those who had lost their own.

Guardsmen Aid Police. The local company of the sixteenth infantry, P. N. C., was brought to the scene today to help the police and firemen who were working in the debris, assisted by civilian volunteer corps.

To guard against fires the gas supply has been turned off and inspectors of the local health department are co-operating with state health inspectors from Harrisburg to prevent an outbreak of disease in the devastated district.

One of the pathetic incidents of the flood was the drowning of the family of John Higgins, a printer. Higgins and his wife and two children were warned of the flood but refused to leave their home at Seventh and Holland streets until too late, because of the illness of the baby, Marian, aged 13 months. Their bodies have been recovered.

Among the missing is L. D. Hopkins, who rescued many persons last night. He was pulled from the water exhausted three times but returned each time to the rescue work and it is believed he perished.

STATE OFFICERS CONFER IN REGARD TO INJUNCTION SUITS

Agree That Regularly Drawn Warrants Except in Cases Named in Bills, Will Be Honored By Treasurer Russell.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Aug. 4.—State officers, upon their return to Springfield late today from the Panama-Pacific exposition, immediately went into conference in regard to the injunction proceedings brought by Payette B. Munro of Chicago, and which have tied up a large amount in appropriations voted by the Forty-ninth general assembly. Pending the return to the state of Attorney General P. J. Lucey and Auditor James J. Brady, State Treasurer Andrew Russell had refused to pay out any money appropriated by the last legislature. The agreement was reached at a conference tonight that all regularly drawn warrants, except in cases specifically named in the Munro bills, would be honored by the treasurer, commencing tomorrow.

Two of the amended bills filed by Munro are to be heard tomorrow morning by Judge Croighton in the Sangamon county circuit court. The first attacks many items of the "omnibus" appropriation bill and the second the measure reimbursing members of the legislature for money spent for railroad fare in attending the sessions of the recent assembly.

It is understood Munro is not ready to argue his petition for an injunction in the case of the deficiency bill, although Attorney General Lucey stated tonight the state was ready to have the case called immediately.

TEUTONS ATTACK FORTS OF WARSAW

Russians Are Driven Back to the Advanced Defenses of Lomaz

CROSS NAREW RIVER

Muscovites Are Offering the Most Stubborn Resistance to Von Hindenburg's Attacks

QUIET PREVAILS IN WEST

LONDON, Aug. 4.—After having tried for three weeks to force the Russians to evacuate Warsaw and the Polish salient by encircling movements from the north and pressure from the west, the Austro-Germans have commenced attacks on the fortresses of the capital and those of Lomza and Ostrolenka, to the northeast and Ivangorod, to the southeast.

Berlin Claims Successes. Berlin claims tonight that the Russians have been driven back to the advanced defenses of Lomza, that the Narew has been crossed near Ostrolenka; that driven out of their Blonie positions, the Russians have fallen back into the outer lines of Warsaw, which the Bavarians are attacking and that the Austrians have captured the western part of the fortress of Ivangorod.

Thus, what should prove a decisive battle for the Polish capital has begun in earnest.

Von Mackensen Slowly Advancing. In the meantime, Field Marshal von Mackensen is slowly advancing from the southeast between the Vistula and the Bug in an effort to cut off the Russian armies, which apparently are making a leisurely exit from Warsaw and the western lines; while General von Buelow, in his wider encircling movement through Courland, has reached Kupischki, some fifty miles west of Drinsk on the Vilna-Petrograd railway.

Although the operations of von Mackensen and von Buelow appear to offer the most dangerous threats to the retreating Russian armies, the Russian general staff is paying more attention to Field Marshal von Hindenburg who has been trying with more or less success to force the line of the Barwa. Here the Russians are offering the most stubborn resistance and according to an official despatch from Petrograd in two battles of three days each succeeded in checking the Germans and inflicting heavy losses.

Force Crossing of the Narew. When the despatch was sent a third battle was in progress. Berlin claims that in this battle the Germans have been successful and forced a crossing of the Narew near Ostrolenka.

On the whole the Russians, so far as can be gathered from the official reports, are making an orderly retirement. They are losing comparatively few prisoners and, except for the 32 guns abandoned to the west of Ivangorod, the Germans make no claims to the capture of heavy pieces of artillery.

Quiet Prevails in West. Quiet prevails along the western front except in the Argonne and the Vosges where German attempts to recapture lost ground or take new trenches have failed, according to the French communication.

New moves of the greatest importance are anticipated in the near east. Ministers of Great Britain, France, Russia and Italy have had a conference with the Greek government. A despatch from Paris says that an Italian officer recently arrived at British headquarters in the Mediterranean to arrange for this.

CONNECTICUT LANDS MARINES IN HAITI

PRESIDENT WILSON IS KEEPING CLOSE WATCH ON SITUATION

Advices From Rear-Admiral Caperton Indicate That the Peace Commission Sent to Cape Haitien to Disarm Did Not Succeed.

Washington, Aug. 4.—The Connecticut arrived at Port au Prince at 4 p. m. today, according to a message from Admiral Caperton tonight and landed the 500 marines taken aboard at Philadelphia.

President Wilson is keeping close watch on the situation in Haiti. All advices from the island republic relating to conditions there are being forwarded to the summer White House as rapidly as they arrive.

Secretary Lansing has spent several hours each day lately in conference with Americans familiar with Haiti. No political steps have been determined upon by this government, however, and probably none will be planned until some form of government has been established with which the United States may negotiate.

Peace Commission Fails. Advices from Rear Admiral Caperton today indicated that the peace commission dispatched from Port au Prince to Cape Haitien to persuade the revolutionists to disarm, did not succeed.

Although General Blot, the government commander, is reported to have resigned his command, and some of his troops disarmed, the revolutionary forces under General Bobo are said to have rejected the proposals.

Blot is reported to have agreed to head a movement for the organization of a commission to manage civil affairs of the republic, pending an election.

With the arrival of the battleship Connecticut at Port au Prince today Admiral Caperton has a maximum force of 300 men available for use in an emergency.

New York, Aug. 4.—J. J. Keppler, vice president of the International Association of Machinists announced today that five shops in the New York district employing all trades about 3,000 persons, had granted the eight hour work day and a general increase in wages.

"The net result to date of the eight hour campaign that was begun at Bridgeport," said Mr. Keppler, "is that thousands of working men and women have been benefited throughout the eastern states with increased wages and better hours."

MEXICAN BANDITS ATTACK WORK TRAINS

Brownsville, Tex., Aug. 4.—Evidence that Mexican bandits who have been terrorizing this section for several weeks have not crossed the Rio Grande into Mexico was seen today in the attack of a work train two miles north of where a railway bridge was burned and telegraph and telephone wires cut last night. About twenty shots were fired but no one was injured. Five bullets struck the locomotive and several hit the cabooses.

PREPARE DRAFT OF REPLY TO ENGLAND

Elaborate Statistics Are Assembled to Refute British Assumption

STUDY TRADE CONDITIONS

Report Shows English Exports to Scandinavian Countries Have Increased During War

USE BRITISH TRADE FIGURES

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—Elaborate statistics have been assembled by the state department to refute the British assumption that increased exportations from the United States to Holland and Scandinavian countries indicate that some of these goods are finding their way into Germany and Austria. The figures will be included in a preliminary draft, being prepared for President Wilson, of the reply to the three British notes made public yesterday.

Study Trade Conditions. A study of trade conditions between the United States and neutral European countries has been made by the state department, and investigation of Scandinavian and Dutch trade by the department of commerce.

A report from Consul General Skinner at London also has been received on the foreign trade of Great Britain for the six months ended June 30. It shows that exports to the Scandinavian countries and Holland have increased since the war began, along the same lines as American exports to those countries.

The state department will contend that there can be no more assumption that American goods going to those neutral countries are bound for Germany, than that British goods exported there, will reach Great Britain's enemies.

The London report showed that while Great Britain's exports decreased materially in the first six months of 1915 as compared to the same period of 1914, imports increased. Re-exports during June, the first month during which the British order in council was fully effective, showed an increase of $2,094,838.

In cotton, one of the much-disputed articles in the trade, Great Britain's imports increased by 1,214,592 cents of 112 pounds each

SIGN BOARDS ON PUBLIC HIGHWAYS MUST COME DOWN

South Jacksonville Board Will Notify Property Owners to That Effect. Hedge Fences and Weeds Must Be Cut.

At a meeting of the village board of South Jacksonville held last night the members went on record for a cleaner village. The clerk was instructed to notify all property owners that hedge fences must be cut and weeds mowed else the same would be declared a public nuisance. The board will also notify all owners of public property that signs on public highways in the village will have to be removed.

The meeting was called to order by President Hackett and all members were present except Trustee Hefler. All properly approved bills were ordered paid.

The clerk read a report of the street and alley committee relative to the roads of the village. In many places they are in a very bad condition and the committee stated that they would be put in shape as soon as weather conditions were favorable.

Consable Pike reported that there had been five arrests for violating the law relative to riding on the sidewalk on bicycles. All had paid their fines.

The national treasury continues to run behind about three quarters of a million dollars per day. By inducing early payments of income taxes and by urging prompt remittances by collectors, the treasury department made a book showing of a balance of about $82,000,000 on July 1. That this was a fictitious showing is now proven by the fact that from the first day of the new fiscal year, the expenditures exceeded the receipts and the balance dropped to about $67,000,000 at the close of business Saturday, July 24. On the corresponding date two years ago, with republican revenue and appropriation laws in effect, the balance was $129,453,000.

The protection to American industries afforded by the European war is well illustrated in the report of the department of labor, recently made public, on foreign food prices as affected by the war—bulletin No. 170. The report shows that administrative and legislative measures to check the rise in the cost of necessities were very generally taken. Denmark, Egypt, Great Britain, Italy, Russia, Spain and Turkey prohibited the export of practically all foodstuffs. France, Norway and Sweden listed certain articles which must not be exported, and Holland placed an embargo on butter and cheese.

The embargo placed by Great Britain on Australian exports of fresh meats to the United States destroyed the hopes of an organized attempt on the part of meat producers in that country to take advantage of the Underwood free trade provision on fresh meats. As an exporter, Germany practically ceased to exist as soon as the blockade became effective. As a prominent western business man remarked: "The blood of Europe saved this country from another 1893."

Canada's Latest Offering.

A thousand machine guns of the latest type for the equipment of Canadian troops in Europe have been subscribed in two weeks. The voluntary offers came from provinces, cities, firms and private individuals, and the long list is headed by the Province of Ontario, which offered 500 machine guns. The cost of each gun is nearly $1,000, so that this latest patriotic offering represents a million dollars.

Ontario's contributions as a province thus far in the war total some two millions of dollars. Some ten millions have been spent by the other provinces, and all are ready to duplicate the expenditures, or even to increase them, during the coming year.

The thousand machine guns to be used by the Canadian troops at the front are expected to prove a vital factor. Col. Curry, invalided home from the front after the battle of St. Julien, estimates a machine-gun as the equivalent of almost a hundred men, and more than their equivalent in certain recurring emergencies. There are times when in the trench fighting machine guns only can turn the tide of victory. Without them, there is a terrible toll of lives.

Some Good Advice.

An Indiana reader of Farm and Fireside, who says he has only small capital writes to the question department that he is hesitating between taking a homestead in western Canada and buying some Texas school land at $1.50 to $5.00 per acre, on very easy terms. He asks for advice, and the editor answers:

"It might be wiser to stay in Indiana than to go to either place. There are no good homesteads left in the United States, and lands selling at from $1.50 to $5.00 per acre must have something the matter with them. All things considered, they are probably no cheaper than Indiana land at its selling price. If cheap lands are not paid for in money they must be paid for in labor or hardship if they are productive lands. The thing to decide is, 'Am I willing to pay the price in hardship, isolation and the like?' This is a question which every man must decide."

Many a farmer who has left Morgan county to look for cheap land elsewhere has come back poorer, but well satisfied to take his chances making a living on "high priced" land.

The Value of a Smile.

A young woman employed in the Cook county recorder's office died recently and is mourned by her 350 fellow employees. The reason for their devotion to her is indicated by the statement that she was known as "The girl who was always smiling." There is much, indeed, in the habit of happiness and gladness which benefits those who acquire the habit as well as others who come in contact with the "smiles."

Happiness sometimes results from surroundings or from things accomplished, but it is a state of mind and heart which can be cultivated and developed. The average person in middle life finds it easier to drift into periods of gloom than of gladness, and this fact emphasizes the value of developing the happy state of mind in youthful days. When a convicted man goes to his death unflinchingly, the newspapers comment on the fact that he died "game," and this thought recently made one writer suggest that in praising those who die game we forget about those who "live bravely."

There are many people in the world who struggle along with each day's duties, follow in the paths of right living, keep courageous hearts in the midst of troubles, present ever smiling mien, and "live bravely." Too often we overlook the value of such lives, but the Chicago girl who kept smiling was appreciated.

WHEN PATIENTS ARE TROUBLESOME WATER PROVES THE BEST REMEDY

State Hospital Hydropathic Rooms Fitted for Continuous Use—Heating Plant Will Be Repaired and Boilers Re-Walled.

Violent insanity is no longer the serious problem of years gone by, when quieting the patient's ravings was often left to the hospital attendant. Hydrotherapy is the solution, and water the "cure" for the worst patient in the disturbed ward when beset by hallucinations which goad him to violence. The quieting effect of the continuous bath was well illustrated Wednesday at the Jacksonville State Hospital when a patient from Springfield was brought in by four men and taken at once to the men's hydropathic hospital, recently enlarged and improved for use twenty-four hours, instead of eight, each day. The patient became quiet almost as soon as treatment began, and a few hours in the warm bath took away every symptom of his violent attack.

The hydropathic hospitals have fully justified their extension, suggests Dr. Hill, and do much to simplify management of the patients. Each hospital consists of three rooms, one for beds, a second with tub baths and a third for a shower, controlled from an especially built cabinet through which the temperature may be regulated to any given degree. Water treatment is made use of to a considerable extent in care of morphine victims. Regular patients of the institution are the chief beneficiaries, however, as drug fiends at the hospital seldom number more than two or three, since the numbers coming in the spring have been cured and sent away. The continuous baths are ready for the patient at any hour of the day or night.

Heating Plant Improvements.

The chief engineer of the board of administration was here from Springfield Tuesday and Wednesday taking measurements for general improvements on the hospital heating plant. The two mechanical stokers will be repaired and the six boilers will be re-walled.

About twenty parole patients now have rooms in the quarters formerly occupied by domestics, near the amusement hall. These men are virtually self-governing and enjoy much more freedom than formerly, though kept always within the confines of the grounds.

The J. S. H. movies have become an established institution, enjoyed by attendants and patients, too. Shows are given on the lawn each Tuesday and Friday at 8 o'clock. Four reels of comedy make up the performance, which lasts just an hour.

TRACTOR DEMONSTRATION DRAWS MANY TO CHAMPAIGN

More Than One Hundred Machines on Exhibition—Morgan County Has Representation Among Visitors—The Oldest Experiment Field.

Albert Hembrough and his son, Clyde, E. R. Hembrough, Dan Moy and William Ross are in Champaign to attend the tractor demonstration. They will probably return Friday.

There are 110 tractors on display, the product of thirty-one factories. Familiarity with automobile engines has paved the way for the tractor introduction and as the result of the big demonstration there is no doubt but that a vast impetus will be given to the use of tractors for farm work.

The mud Tuesday gave the "caterpillar" machines an opportunity to demonstrate. This machine lays its own track and then picks it up. After the farmers Tuesday saw a forty-five horse power caterpillar tractors the muddy roads, they were ready to believe the stories of the work of a sixty horse power type used in the European war to transport heavy artillery.

Most of the tractors exhibited are either eight horse power and for two plows, or twelve horse power, and for four plows, although there are some of sixteen and twenty horse power. Considering that three years ago the small tractor was already to believe the stories of the industry is remarkable.

All the exhibitors are wondering what Henry Ford of Detroit is going to do. There has been a story all year that he intended to manufacture a $250 tractor, but nothing definite has come from him. The theory of the tractor men here is that he has not perfected his plans, and they will not be surprised if he puts a tractor on the market.

The tractor demonstration was organized and financed by the Prairie Farmer, Orange Judd Farmer, Farm and Home, and the Champaign Chamber of Commerce, with the co-operation of the University of Illinois and the Champaign County Agricultural Improvement association.

Evening programs on farm power subjects are offered at the University and are in charge of such experts as C. O. Reed, W. L. Burleson and I. W. Dickerson of the University of Illinois, F. M. White of the University of Wisconsin and Raymond Olney, Editor of Threshermen's Review. The farm engineering departments of big middle western schools have sent their experts to Champaign to watch this important demonstration. The 33 companies participating include not only the old established engine builders and land marks in the world of American agricultural machinery but a number of newer concerns that have developed distinctive types of tractors.

Special provision has been made by the state university and experiment station to insure visitors a satisfactory and instructive view of the institution. Special guides are on hand and farmers are being shown the visible evidence of what becomes of the $5,000,000 appropriation provided for the needs of this institution. They are seeing some of the 45 buildings on the campus, including the great armory, brand new, which is covered by the largest unsupported arch roof in America and which furnishes a drill ground for 2200 students at one time.

Visitors are seeing also the oldest experiment field in the United States and the various demonstration plots where tests conducted for over a quarter of a century form the basis for the "Illinois Idea" of soil maintenance. The stock judging pavilion where over 1200 students learned to judge stock last year, the purebred animal departments, the 20 acre dairy demonstration farm and the 500 acres of campus and 800-acre farm all contribute to the interest, instruction and enjoyment of visitors.

SAYS EASTLAND PASSED

ALL SHIPS ON TRIP.
The excursion steamer Eastland could apparently pass every steamer on the lake, says Henry W. Muehlhausen, who was in Chicago a year ago and took a trip to St. Joseph, Mich., on the ill-fated vessel. Ships miles out in the lake were passed one by one by the swift running Eastland, recalls Mr. Muehlhausen. It was a fine summer afternoon and before overtaking a competitor the band would play "I'm Coming", changing the strain to "Good Bye, Everybody", as she left the other vessel behind. Mr. Muehlhausen was especially struck with the Eastland's light draft.

THE J. H. S. IMPROVEMENT.

Word on improvements at the Central school buildings is progressing satisfactorily. The first coat of paint has been placed on the high school assembly room ceiling and the second will probably be finished by the last of the week. Doors for the passage-way in the David Prince building have been cut and all is ready for the structural steel from the bridge works. Installation of the lights at the high school will be completed within a short time.

MATHEW MINTER IS BETTER.

Reports from the bedside of John Minter who is ill in the Presbyterian hospital in Chicago, are to the effect that he is slowly improving. His condition last week was considered critical.

Will Solicit Funds TO LAY TARTIA PAVEMENT

Action Taken at Meeting Held Last Night on New Roadbed for Morton Avenue—Systematic Campaign Will Be Instituted.

A meeting was held in the rooms of the Chamber of Commerce Wednesday evening, for the purpose of talking over the connecting of Morton avenue hard road with Hardin avenue pavement. Considerable enthusiasm was manifested, and all present believed that the project would be under way in a short time.

As has been previously stated, the estimated cost of the work would be: Concrete, $3,900.00, and tertia, $4,337.20.

T. H. Buckthorpe acted as chairman of the evening, and Carl H. Weber as secretary. Among those present, besides the presiding officers, were: James Strawn, J. M. Starr, J. W. Arnold, Marcus Hulett, Charles Magill, L. H. Whitlock, Thomas Cain, T. H. Buckthorpe, Ellsworth Wells, and Mayor H. J. Rodgers.

Mr. Rogers presented the engineers' estimate for the work, as stated above. The meeting was thrown open to all present, and everyone spoke on the subject. In no every instance the speaker favored tertia construction, on account of a concrete pavement being too slippery for the hill at Brooklyn avenue.

The farmers especially did not believe it would be possible to haul heavy loads to the city up the hill if a concrete pavement was laid.

A motion was made and carried unanimously that the soliciting committees be instructed to raise the sum of $4,400 to construct a tertia pavement, according to the engineer's estimates. After this money is raised and on hand, bids will be advertised for, and then the surplus will be prorated back to the donors.

Upon motion, Mayor Rodgers was appointed exordian of this fund. It was agreed that the soliciting committees should meet in the Chamber of Commerce rooms Friday evening at 8 p. m. to begin a systematic campaign for the funds. The city engineer department will supervise the work.

RATE CASE HEARING IS ADJOURNED TWO WEEKS

Illness of Attorney Green Necessitated Continuance—Company's Electrical Engineer Most Important Witness Wednesday—Commissioner Shaw Declares Actual Investment Will Be Basis of Finding.

The hearing of the Jacksonville rate case was not concluded before the Illinois Utility Commission Wednesday. Mr. Green, attorney for the Railway Company, was ill and did not feel equal to the task of continuing the hearing and on his request an adjournment was taken to Tuesday, August 17th. At that time the company expects to present another witness and Mr. Stevens stated that the petitioners would like to recall L. C. Fischer.

E. S. Hight, electrical engineer for the company, was the first witness Wednesday morning and was cross examined by Mr. Stevens as to his methods of placing valuations. The witness declared that in forming his estimate that he had eliminated inadequacy, obsolescence and rate tables and that his figures were rather the result of personal experience and judgment, based upon some observation of the property here. He placed the percent of condition of gas meters here at 85 per cent and said that when a meter was below sixty per cent that it was not fit for service.

Mr. Jennings asked the witness a long list of prepared questions dealing with the condition of the electric plant on October last and the changes that had been made up to date; also as to the general condition of the machinery and the reasons for recent replacements. Mr. Jennings went into his business experience and education to determine his qualifications arriving at values and concluded his examination by asking the witness if the facts based upon his own testimony did not show that there was but little difference in his valuations and those of the engineers for the commission.

When the street railway was under discussion Mr. Shaw remarked that he had personally observed some of the replacement work and was familiar with the condition of the ties that were being removed. The commissioner emphasized the fact that the finding in the present case will not be based on book values or bonds or stores but upon actual values and investment.

Mr. Miser was called to testify as to the relation of the purchasing department of the Illinois Traction System to the Jacksonville Railway and Light company and the advantages of the same. He also identified certain tables introduced in evidence.

The auditor for the Illinois Traction System introduced an exhibit from the books of the company covering the period of time from 1906 to 1915.

WELL KNOWN COUNTY AGENT WILL MAKE ADDRESSES HERE

W.R. Butler of Indiana to Talk at Chautauqua on Business of Farming and the Scope of the County Agent's Work.

Agricultural America is looking toward co-operation through county advisers. In many counties the county agent is already a fixture—an officer of more service to the entire county than many of the other county officers. Any county that seeks to improve its agricultural interests thereby adds the entire community, for we all know that what helps the farmer helps the towns. W. R. Butler, a well-known and successful two addresses at the Chautauqua. Tuesday afternoon, August 24, he will discuss "The Business of Farming," illustrated by charts. In the evening his subject will be "The Scope of the County Agent Work," illustrated with eighty lantern slides. Of course, Mr. Butler will be glad to answer questions.

CASE AGAINST FORMER DETECTIVES WILL BE GIVEN TO JURY NEXT WEEK

Spectators Are Disappointed When it Becomes Known That Neither O'Brien Nor Egan Will Take the Stand.

Chicago, Aug. 4.—The case against former Detective Sergeants Walter O'Brien and Egan, charged with accepting bribes for protection of the "clairvoyant trust" is expected to be given to the jury early next week.

Late today Attorney Northrup of the defense announced that he would close his case tomorrow morning. He then made a formal motion, asking that the case be taken from the jury and a verdict of not guilty returned.

The lawyer declared that testimony offered by state witnesses was contradictory and did not sustain material allegations in the indictment. Spectators at the trial were disappointed when it became known that neither O'Brien nor Egan, the defendants, would take the stand.

State's Attorney Maclay Hoyne announced this afternoon that he would seek indictments for several policemen on charges of perjury and conspiracy to obstruct justice in connection with the trial. The accused policemen, according to Mr. Hoyne, gave testimony in behalf of Egan, one of the defendants.

FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE By The Associated Press.)

Berlin, Aug. 4.—(Correspondence of the Associated Press)—Protracted experiments with the Japanese "soy" or "soja" bean, out of which among other things, Worcestershire sauce is made, are being conducted with a view to determining whether this vegetable, which can be and is raised in Germany, cannot be used in the many prison camps.

A propaganda for and against this variety of bean has been conducted for years by hygiene food experts and botanists. It is the contention of its sponsors that it can easily be used as a complement to Germany's other foods, and that from it can be made food that will appeal to the European taste.

In the far East the soja bean already is in great demand, both for human and animal food products and also for the oil it contains. Next to rice it forms one of the principal articles of the food supply in some eastern countries, especially when combined with cereals and salt. It also plays an important part in sauces and spices. The milk from this bean approximates ordinary milk in nutritive value, and cheese can be made from it.

When combined with 30 or 40 per cent white flour, the meal of the soja bean lends itself to a tasty and nourishing bread, which has been found to be especially good for diabetics because of the high percentage of albumen and fat contained. The roasted soja beans also make a good substitute for coffee. The soja plant forms a good fodder for cattle.

Exhaustive experiments with the soja bean have already been made at the agriculture station of the University of Wisconsin, all tending to bear out, it is said, the contention of German dieticians in favor of the bean.

Berlin, August 4th.—Arrangements for a more complete consolidation of Belgian financial interests with those of Germany are moving rapidly forward. In Antwerp, it is announced, the German administrator of the Banque Centrale Anversoise has given out information that it is to be absorbed by the Deutsche, its head becoming a director of the latter institution.

Berlin, Aug. 4.—The executive committee of the Socialist Party of Germany and the Executive committee of the Socialists in the Reichstag have issued a statement urging the necessity for party unity at the present time. It is a reply to an anonymous hand-sheet recently circulated, which demanded that the Socialists abandon the party truce and open a sharp offensive against the government.

Capetown, August 4.—(Correspondence of the Associated Press)—The cost to South Africa of the war in Southwest Africa, which resulted in the loss of that country to Germany, is estimated in official circles at 67,000,000. The suppression of the rebellion at home was responsible for the expenditure of an additional $20,000,000.

The close of the war in Southwest Africa has led to a discussion as to the future of the conquered German colony. When General Botha was invited by the British Imperial Government to undertake a campaign into Southwest Africa last August, it was stipulated that any occupied territory should be held unreservedly at the disposal of the British government. The belief here is that the Imperial Government will under no circumstances allow any of this territory to go back into German hands at the conclusion of peace, nor is it likely that England will care to add to its direct responsibilities by creating it a separate Crown colony. It is generally regarded as inevitable therefore that the greater part of the Southwest Africa will ultimately be included as an additional province of the Union of South Africa, with the exception of Caprivi strip, which may be added to the Chartered Company's territories in Central Africa.

For the immediate future, temporary arrangements will be made for the administration of the new territory during the remainder of the war under a governor appointed from Capetown with the approval of the London Government.

Plans are already being discussed for the future development of certain parts of the conquered colony. The construction of a railway from Livingstone to the West coast, which would open up the rich cattle country of Northern Rhodesia by a shorter route to the sea, will apparently be the first big engineering work to be undertaken. Later will come the development of the great mineral wealth to the country, while it is expected that those parts which are suitable for pasture will be occupied by Boer trekkers from the Transvaaland Orange Free State.

A Costly Client.

Miss Bayley told me that Mr. Phipps, the oculist, told a gentleman, who told her, the following anecdote of the late Duchess of Devonshire: Mr. Phipps was sent for to Chatsworth to operate upon the duchess' eye. He stayed there some time and at parting received from the duke a fee of £1,000. Just before he stepped into his carriage a message from the duchess brought him to her chamber. She hoped the duke had done what was handsome by Mr. Phipps. The gentleman protested:

"Yes, and more than handsome."

"It is an awful thing," continued her grace, "to ask, but really I am at this moment in immediate want of such a sum, and if you could, Mr. Phipps—"

What could the oculist do? He produced his £1,000, took his leave and never heard of his money from that day to this.—From "Recollections of a Long Life," by Lord Broughton.

Houses in Buenos Aires.

No building in Buenos Aires is permitted to be higher than the width of the street upon which it is erected; hence the skyscraper will never become popular there, despite the splendid growth and wideawakeness of the city. Much as this metropolis is known, it is not generally thought of in the light of age. However, it is one of the oldest cities in the new world. The first white settlement was made just forty-two years after the discovery of America by Columbus, and the first buildings were mud huts thatched with straw. Then a brick kiln was made and later tiles and bricks were imported from Spain. The first city was of Spanish architecture, and that style prevailed for more than 300 years. Despite the many great changes which have come through the passage of time and the general building advance in the world, four-fifths of the houses of Buenos Aires are still of one story, although there are streets lined with six-story palaces.—Exchange.

A Unique Lightship.

Off the island of Islay, on the west coast of Scotland, there is stationed at the Otter rock a unique lightship. It is unmanned, yet it can be relied on to display the warning light to guide the mariner on this dangerous coast. It is a most ingeniously constructed vessel and the only one of its kind. In its two steel tanks a sufficient quantity of gas can be stored to supply the lantern for several months. Experiments have shown that the light may be depended upon to burn continuously for months at a time. The approximate duration of the light can be predetermined, and there is no danger whatever of its being extinguished by wind or spray. The light is visible at a distance of from eight to twelve miles. The lightship also has a bell, which is made to ring automatically by means of an ingenious device that utilizes the gas as it passes from the tanks to the lantern to work the bell clapper.—Every Week.

MANY FEATURES IN PROGRAM PROVIDED FOR VETERANS

Submarines and Destroyers Will Be Exhibited at Washington—Hartford to Be Restored to Old Appearance.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 4.—Submarines and swift running torpedo boat destroyers will be brought to Washington by the navy department to add a special feature to the series of events which are to take place at the national capital in connection with the forthcoming encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic. Secretary Daniels is desirous that the old veterans shall be afforded an opportunity to see some of the implements of modern warfare in order to show by contrast with those which were in use a half century ago the progress which has been made since the days when the Grand Army men and their brothers in the navy bore arms.

The fact is appreciated that because of its successful operation in European waters at the present time the submarine is the most talked of weapon of present day warfare, yet few of the veterans of the Civil War have ever seen one. The suggestion was at first made that the department should bring to Washington the old Holland which was the first underwater craft of our navy and from which the successful boats of today have been developed, and place beside it one of the recently constructed submarines. The fact that this vessel has been sold to a private concern will preclude that possibility, and accordingly it has been planned to bring here one of the earlier types and also one of the modern submarines to illustrate the progress made in construction. The United States was the first nation to develop the underwater fighting vessel. It was then taken up by Great Britain which employed the old Holland patents with improvements, and finally by Germany which has used this class of boats with such deadly effect upon the ships of her enemies. The old Holland and some of the models which followed her, one of which will be here, gave their first demonstrations in the Potomac off Washington where it is proposed during encampment week to give exhibitions of torpedo firing, dummies being used, to illustrate the manner in which the present day submarine operates.

Will Show Old Hartford.
An effort is also being made to have one or more hydroplanes brought here for exhibition purposes. It is also the intention of the department to bring here the old Hartford, now at Charleston, S. C., restored to the appearance she bore in the days of the Civil War when she was the flagship of Admiral Farragut.

The navy and the marine corps will also be represented by their enlisted personnel and probably some of the vessels of the Atlantic fleet. It will be possible for the blackjacks and marines to be brought to Washington as they have on similar occasions, by special steamer to remain during the day of the parade, and form an impressive part of the escort of the veterans. The navy department contemplates doing this in the honor of the G. A. R. members and their friends who will be present in large numbers, but as in the case of the representation of the army, it is not regarded as advisable to have too large a demonstration lest it detract in a numerical way from the principals of the celebration, the survivors of the Civil War. Any number of bluejackets and marines can be brought from the Atlantic fleet and from vessels in reserve. It may be possible, also, to have the midshipmen brought to Washington from Annapolis if by that time the members of the first, second and third classes shall have returned from their practice cruise to the west coast.

In any event, the navy department is planning to have an interesting and impressive naval spectacle which shall include such vessels as may be brought to Washington to represent the advances made in the mechanism of naval warfare, and such ships as the Hartford that may have an historical significance and, as well, a contribution of naval personnel to the parade which is bound to arouse enthusiasm.

OLD JACKSONVILLE The Hockenhulls

By Ensley Moore.
Member of Illinois State Historical Society.

Second Paper.

Robert Hockenhill married Miss Matilda McMackin, as stated in the first paper regarding the Hockenhulls. The wedding day was Oct. 4, 1844.

Their children were Elizabeth Woodward, Margaret, Jane Smith, Sarah, John Nelson and Robert McMackin.

Matilda McMackin, daughter of Dennis and Margaret McMackin, came to Jacksonville with her parents and their family, from Philadelphia, Pa., leaving that city in May, 1836, reaching here, by canal boat, stage, and probably the Ohio, Mississippi and Illinois rivers.

Mr. McMackin was a native of County Tyrone, Ireland, and highly connected in Philadelphia—and so his children were. He died in 1839. His only son, Nelson, dying about the same time.

Mrs. McMackin, daughter of Dr. David Nelson, a Scotch-American patriot of the Revolution, and his wife Margaret Hamilton, of Lancaster, Pa., was born in Wilmington, Delaware.

The children of Mr. and Mrs. McMackin who grew up, were Mrs. Jane Porter Smith, wife of Stafford Smith; Mrs. Margaret Moore, wife of Joshua Moore; Mrs. Sarah Porter Thompson, afterwards wife of John Hockenhill; Mrs. Catharine Gandy, wife of Ensley T. Gandy; Mrs. Matilda Hockenhill, wife of Robert Hockenhill; Miss Eliza Nelson McMackin, and Mrs. Mary Amanda Divine, wife of Wm. Divine, Jr., of Philadelphia, Pa. A full sketch of the McMackins appeared in the Journal of Jan. 28, 1915, in this series of papers and a collection of their early letters from here was published in the Journal of April 2, 1915, also in this series.

Mrs. Matilda Hockenhill was a lady of good appearance, and sang some. Her son, R. M., said: "We got our voices from her." She was extremely witty.

She, as all girls, except Sarah, were members of the Presbyterian church, except Mrs. Smith, who joined her husband's church, the Episcopal.

Mrs. Hockenhill was very domestic in her tastes. But she was quite a traveler, having gone East several times, and to England in 1871. She died April 16, 1886.

Elizabeth W. Hockenhill was quite interested in society, and traveled considerably in this country. She also was a good singer.

Margaret died at the age of eighteen months, in Perry.

Jane S. Hockenhill was graduated from Jacksonville Female Academy in 1870, traveled a good deal in this country and was in England in 1873. She had ability in art.

Sarah Hockenhill was graduated from Jacksonville Female Academy in 1872, has traveled extensively in this country, and was in England in 1873.

John Nelson Hockenhill clerked in the Hockenhill and Elliott bank, and was a partner in it, until about 1899. Since then he has been living most of the time in Henderson, Jefferson county, New York. But he has in the meantime been across the Atlantic several times, and spent a year or more at a time in England. He was a good singer and a genial companion.

Robert McMackin Hockenhill, the youngest child of the family, was born on West College avenue, in December, 1857. He was graduated from Illinois College in 1879, being a member of Phi Alpha society. He entered the Hockenhill & Elliott bank as a clerk, subsequently becoming a partner; retiring in 1908, and becoming a vice president of the Avers National bank, until his death, July 22, 1915.

He was widely known as one of the best singers of Jacksonville.

He was a trustee of the State street church, afterwards going to the Congregational church. He served for years in the choir of the First or State street, and also in the Congregational church. He had considerable artistic ability in drawing. He had traveled in this country, was in England once or twice, and visited the island of Cuba.

Mr. Hockenhill was a warm-hearted man, and gifted with good erous impulses.

John Hockenhill, brother of Robert, was born in Manchester, Cheshire, England, coming to Illinois as stated before, in 1839.

Mr. Hockenhill, some time after coming here, entered the Hockenhill drug store, being a partner at one time, and a clerk latterly. He acquired a reasonable competence through his attention to business, and built a two-building brick block on the East Side of the Square, about 1856. This block was just south of the present Elliott bank. He bought the old Congregational church, on the south half of the East Side of the Square in the summer of 1857, and, in a year or two erected four two-story brick stores in front of the old church; using that building for some years as "Union Hall." Abraham Lincoln delivered a lecture there in those days. "Union Hall" and the Hockenhill block all burned January 7, 1877.

Mr. Hockenhill was a bachelor until April, 1866, when he married his brother Robert's wife's sister, Mrs. Sarah P. Thompson—nee McMackin. He bought a place he called "Mulberry Grove" about that time, on the west side of Lincoln avenue, just the second lot of ground south of Mound avenue. There he made his home until about 1875, when he bought and improved the property at the northwest corner of Grove and Prospect streets, which was his final home. He became a member of Westminster church, with his wife after his marriage. He died about October 10, 1885. He was a quiet, retiring man, but of discriminating tastes, and of much kindness. In company with his wife, Mr. Hockenhill re-visited his native land in 1871.

Sarah Porter McMackin became the wife of Joseph C. Thompson, of Meredosia, in 1845; they making their home on a farm near that place, and in the town until July 17, 1855, the date of his death. She was devotedly attached to Mr. Thompson's son, J. Wilson Thompson, child of a former wife.

As stated above, Mrs. Thompson became the wife of John Hockenhill in 1866. She resided in their home, after his death, until her own passing, about October 16, 1894. During a part of her life Mrs. Hockenhill was a Methodist, and she was very efficient in Sunday school work in Meredosia.

Elizabeth Woodward, wife of Thomas Hockenhill, was a typical and good-looking English woman. She first came to Jacksonville in the late fall of 1853, having been accompanied across the ocean and to Illinois by the Rev. L. M. Glover, D. D., on his return from his European tour that year.

Mrs. Hockenhill made her home with her son Robert, until the next year, when she returned to the old country.

In 1873 she accompanied her son, Robert, and his daughters, Jane and Sarah, to this country and city, and again made her home with Robert.

Mrs. Hockenhill died a year or two later, and was buried in Diamond Grove cemetery, as were both of her sons.

"Grandmother" Hockenhill was much like her son, Robert, in size and appearance, and a quick-witted, vigorous old lady.

She had the English capacity for walking, and, on one occasion—in her native land—stepped off forty miles.

Robert Hockenhill was married June 23, 1884, to Miss Rebecca B. Rust, a most estimable lady of this city.

Mrs. Hockenhill now resides with a niece in Washington, D. C.

Mr. Hockenhill died at his residence, Grove street, April 3, 1891.

When Robert Hockenhill began business first on the North Square, he succeeded to the drug store of English & Munroe, Dr. Nathaniel English and Dr. Thomas Munroe.

HARVEST ARMY CREPS ADVANCE IN WHEAT FIELDS

Thousands Have Flocked to Northwest, Where Work Is Plentiful.

Minneapolis, Minn., Aug. 4.—The vanguard of the harvest army has invaded the great wheat belt, and from all directions the corps of recruits are arriving. Advancing from the south, keeping pace with the reapers and binders as they progress northward with the ripening of the grain, are the main body of men upon whom the Minnesota farmers and railroads depend to garner the crops of the Northwest. There are the hordes who consent to "periodical" employment, the unemployed from the cities, at the fag end of their finances, and hordes of rangy boys who are out for a lark in the unknown country that beckons them.

In South Dakota the harvesters are now under full headway, and by the end of this week the reapers will be moving down the southern end of the great crop in Minnesota. By August 20, fully 20,000 men will be working in the Minnesota fields.

All of the old "gags" of the road were used over again this year by the nomadic workers. Many of the harvest hands entrained as "railroad workmen." When they reached their destinations, instead of hiring out to the railroads, they deserted and roamed into the farm section for harvest jobs. The railroads have been "grievously deceived" by their recruits. While this practice is not officially countenanced, and there is a show of disappointment at the deception, it is suspected that officials know exactly what the men will do. In fact, the rules and regulations of the Interstate Commerce Commission are winked at. Under the interstate law, the roads cannot ship farm laborers for less than the regular passenger rates, but this restriction does not apply to prospective railroad laborers. The necessity of reaping and moving the crops on time is so great that there is small quibble over the ultimate intentions of applicants.

Clifford Tucker, of Berdan, came Thursday for a visit with his brother, Lurten Tucker and wife. Edna Mason came home Sunday morning from Jacksonville for a week's visit.

Saturday evening, Aug. 7, the Sunday school of Pleasant Grove will give an ice cream social in the school yard. Everybody invited to come and help the Sunday school financially.

MONTESSORI SHOWS HER METHODS

San Francisco, Cal., Aug. 4.—Dr. Montessori, the famous Italian educator, and founder of the celebrated "Children's Houses" in Rome, has given up her plans to return to Italy, so that she might conduct an extensive demonstration here for American educators. During August, September, October and November, on the grounds of the exposition, she will give the most complete course she has yet undertaken. Prominent American educators will follow her demonstration closely, and it is expected that her stay in America will work wonders in improvement of teaching methods in kindergarten.

ROTTERDAM.

Rotterdam is a riedly, because none of the fantastic facilities of the dark ages were shipping in a staged there. It led a sleepy, carefree existence for hundreds of years until thirty years ago when it awoke, enlarged its harbor, built several more miles of canals in as line in the south of Holland.

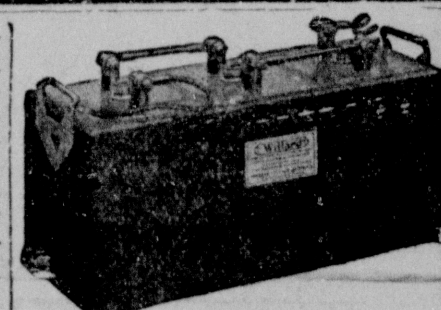

The city is named from the pair of trousers at a time and regarded woglen shoes as a curiosity. It has a ten-story office building which is regarded with more wonder by the inhabitants of Europe than all the old churches of the other Dutch towns; and it is the fourth greatest seaport in the world. A third of Germany's imports come to Rotterdam first and then go up the Rhine. In fact the Rhine is Rotterdam's most valuable asset. If it had the Mississippi river at its doors it would have a million people.

Rotterdam builds ships and sorts out gods for half of Europe. It is a well-built city with many fine buildings and it contains a large number of statues of famous Rotterdamers. It has produced no great artists or generals, but it did produce Erasmus who was a crank and kept harping on education some few hundred years ago at a time when the rest of the world was turning its attention almost exclusively to war.

Rotterdam is one of the youngest and inexperienced of European cities. It is only 600 years old and has not been captured or plundered more than once or twice in its history. The tourist passes it by hur-

London, Aug. 4.—The wedding of Miss Katherine Alice Page, daughter of the American ambassador to the Court of St. James, Walter Hines Page, to Charles Greely Loring, of Boston, took place this morning in the Henry VII Chapel, Westminster Abbey. It was attended by diplomats and public officials, and by the most prominent Americans in London. Following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the American embassy, at 6 Grosvenor Square. Here were received a flood of congratulations and gifts from Europe and America. King George and Queen Mary are among those who sent valuable gifts.

Miss Page was graduated from Bryn Mawr in 1913, and was president of her class. The groom is a prominent young architect in Boston. The bride's mother is a daughter of Dr. William Wilson, a prominent physician of Michigan. The Pages have a mansion at Garden City, L. I., a suburb of New York.

GRAND CIRCUIT MEET OPENS AT KALAMAZOO

TWO DAYS OF RAIN MAKES TRACK EXCEEDINGLY SLOW.

Surprise of the Afternoon is the Defeat of The Eno, Favorite in the $2,000 Michigan United Traction Trot. St. Frisco Takes the Event in Four Heats.

Kalamazoo, Mich., Aug. 4.—After a delay of two days Kalamazoo's Grand Circuit race meet opened this afternoon under anything but favorable weather conditions. A down-pour of rain two days and an almost constant drizzle today made the track exceedingly slow.

The 2:08 pace proved easy for Acornite (Cox), who won in three straight heats. Margot Hal made a good showing in the last two heats but was unable to gain a lead at any time.

Lou Jennings, favorite in the 2:29 trot, finished last in the first heat and was distanced in the second. Lizzie Brown won this race by taking the last three heats.

The 2:13 trot was the slowest of the day, being won by F. A. L. He not driven out until the third heat. Summaries:

"MORNING GLANCES" (By Gosh)

Detroit and Philadelphia played a great game Wednesday, the result being 1 to 0 in favor of the Tigers. Both Dubuc and Wyckoff pitched fine ball. Dubuc yielded four hits and Wyckoff only three. Wyckoff lost his own game in the sixth, when he passed Dubuc. This, with Vitt's sacrifice, Cobb's single, and Crawford's sacrifice fly, scored the lone run of the game. Each team played an errorless game in the field.

By winning Wednesday, while Boston was not playing, the Tigers gained a little in the race for the American flag. The White Sox seem to be slipping badly, losing a double-header to the Senators yesterday.

The Braves are going some. Yesterday they won their third straight game from the Pirates. Mamaux, who has been pitching great ball for the Pirates, was driven from the rubber in the third inning, Cooper taking his place. Hughes relieved Davis in the second inning for Boston, and held the Pirates safe until the ninth, when three hits produced the only run they made in the game.

Washington trimmed the White Sox twice yesterday. The score of the first game was 1 to 0 in favor of the Senators. Boehling and Scott were the opposing twirlers. Boehling gave four hits and Scott five. In the second game, Gallia allowed the same number of hits as did Boehling, while the Senators got five off of Cicotte and Wolfgang. The score of the second game was 3 to 1. Both teams played fine ball in the field each only making one error in the two games.

The Reds seem to be the destroyers of pennant hopes of various teams recently. The Reds whipped Brooklyn again yesterday, thereby making it two out of three on the series. The Superbas were going fine until they hit the Reds' town, and they took a tumble. Dale pitched a good game for the Reds, keeping the Brooklyn's eight hits well scattered.

Pittsburgh in the Federals beat Brooklyn yesterday by a score of 6 to 1. The batting of Konetchy figured largely in the Pittsburgh victory.

New York and St. Louis played a double-header yesterday. In the first game the Giants won by a score of 11 to 9. It was a wild and wet game, with both teams hitting the ball hard. New York used Mathewson and Tesreau, while St. Louis used Ames, Griner, Niehaus and Perdue. Each team used two catch-

A PAIR OF GLOVES.

The Impudent Store People Wouldn't Take Them Back.

Mrs. Pinkerton's first question was about the gloves.

"Did you exchange them?" she asked.

"No," said Pinkerton, "I didn't."

"There," she complained, "I might have known you would forget it. How careless! I told you the very last thing before you left the house to be sure to attend to it. Really, I don't see how men can be so thoughtless."

"I didn't forget," said Pinkerton. "I tried to change them, but they wouldn't take the things back."

"Wouldn't take them back?" she said.

"Why not?"

"They said they were soiled."

"Soiled? Well, of all things! If they are they got soiled in their own store. I didn't soil them. I have never had them on my hands. I couldn't get them on. They were half a size too small. They gave me the wrong number. Why didn't you tell them so?"

"I did."

"Who did you tell?"

"The clerk and the floorwalker and everybody who would listen to me."

"And what did they say?"

"They laughed."

"The impudent creatures! I'll never buy a cent's worth in that store again, you see if I do."

"That's just what I said," Pinkerton put in. "I said you never would."

"And what did they say to that?"

"They laughed again."

"Well, that settles it. I never will buy anything there now. Where are the gloves?"

"In my pocket."

"Let me have them, please. Soiled, indeed! I'll see if they are."

Mrs. Pinkerton unwrapped the package. As she took out the gloves she blushed slightly.

"Well," she said.

"Well?" echoed Pinkerton. "What's wrong?"

"Nothing much," she said, "only this is an old pair of gloves. I cleaned them last week with gasoline. I made a mistake and sent them back instead of the pair I bought yesterday."—New York Herald.

SOIL MOISTURE AND TILLAGE FOR CORN

Principles Advanced to Secure Best Result By Chief in Soil Physics.

(By J. G. Mosier, Chief in Soil Physics, and A. F. Gustafson, Associate in Soil Physics.)

The common impression among farmers and most agricultural writers is that cultivation of corn is necessary as a means of conserving moisture. While this may be true to a large extent in sub-humid and semi-arid regions, yet in humid sections this purpose in the cultivation of corn is a very secondary object.

The reader is asked to note and to keep in mind that it is not the purpose of the authors of this bulletin to recommend specific methods or implements to be used in the cultivation of corn, but to develop principles that should be observed in order to secure the best results. The investigations reported were conducted to discover why corn is cultivated, and no one should assume that we advocate for practical farming the substitution of hard labor for horse power, but only that principles should guide practice toward the greatest profits.

Killing of Weeds.

The most important factor in the growth of a crop of corn on fertile soil with a well-prepared seed bed in humid regions is the killing of weeds. With the same preparation of seed corn, corn produced, as an eight-year average, 7.3 bushels per acre where the weeds were allowed to grow, and 45.9 bushels where the weeds are kept down without any cultivation. This gives an increase of 38.6 bushels, or say $19.30 per acre, for keeping weeds down. Weeds deprive the plant of moisture, light, and food, all of which are absolutely necessary for the production of crops. Of these factors, however, the one that has made the greatest difference is that of plant food. Corn has been grown together with weeds, but irrigated so that it was not deprived of moisture, yet the increase from irrigation, as a four-year average, was only 3.8 bushels per acre. Weeds are much better forage than are most cultivated crops; and it would be just as reasonable to expect a lamb to thrive with a bunch of hogs as to expect corn to compete with weeds.

Moisture and Food.

If a soil is in good till, and there are no weeds little or no cultivation is necessary. If it is in poor till with no weeds present, some cultivation may be necessary for aeration. This is especially true of heavy soils or those containing a large amount of clay. In humid climates cultivation of corn is rarely necessary for the conservation of moisture if a good seed bed has been prepared. After the corn has become twelve inches or more in height, the roots are so completely distributed between the rows that it is difficult for moisture to escape from the soil, for it is captured by the roots in its upward progress. As an average of eight years investigations, the soil was found to contain no more moisture where the corn was cultivated than where the weeds were destroyed without cultivation.

Cultivation should be as shallow as possible at all times, although deeper stirring is permissible the first time than later. For the highest yield, cultivation should never be deep enough to injure the roots. The purpose of the roots is to get plant food and moisture and as a general rule plants develop no more than are necessary for this purpose. The injury of a few roots, therefore, may stunt the corn. It must be remembered, too, that the plowed stratum is the richest part of the soil, and that the roots will naturally develop where there is the largest supply of plant food. Three-fourths of the roots of the corn plant are developed in the plowed soil. For this reason deep plowing in both fall and spring should be done to give a large feeding area.

LIBERATING POTASSIUM FOR THE USE OF CROPS

(By Cyril G. Hopkins, Chief in Agronomy and Chemistry, and J. P. Aumer, Associate in Chemistry.)

Potash is so widely advertised and commercial potassium has been given such a prominent place in most of the experiments relating to soil fertility, both in this country and abroad, that the greatest natural source of potassium—the soil,—like the inexhaustible atmospheric supply of nitrogen, is not generally understood or appreciated.

The fact is that the total amount of commercial potassium applied annually to all the farms of the United States is no more than is contained in one square mile of common corn-belt land to a depth of six feet, and the important potassium problem is how to liberate it as needed from the inexhaustible supply already contained in all normal soils.

Summary of Bulletin No. 182 of which the above is a part:

1. Potassium can be liberated as needed from the inexhaustible supply naturally contained in the normal soils of Illinois.

2. The amount of potassium taken up from ordinary Illinois soil by clover is from two to three times the amount required for plant growth. The excess probably is merely tolerated, as is sodium and silicon, both of which are present in the soil solution, and are taken up by plants in considerable amounts, although neither is essential for plant growth.

PREVENTION OF COLDS IMPORTANT FOR CHILDREN

Ordinary Cold in an Infection and Can Be Transmitted to Others—Rules to Be Observed.

The ordinary cold is an infection and can be transmitted to others so do not unnecessarily expose other people.

When the baby gets a cold it is usually from some affectionate friend or relative who has one.

Do not kiss or fondle a baby if you have a cold.

A cold in an adult may be simply a discomfort for a short time, but in a baby very serious results often follow.

Meningitis, otitis media (running ear), rheumatism, pneumonia, heart disease, these are some of the after-effects of colds in babies.

A cold in a baby should never be neglected and allowed to run its course untreated any more than should any other disease.

The best treatment for colds is prevention.

Prevention can best be obtained by keeping the baby away from personal contact with anyone having colds, by allowing the baby to be in the fresh air as much as possible even if it is cold out-of-doors, by bathing and keeping the skin in a clean condition and the pores open by keeping the bowels open, by treating the nose daily with pure white vaseline.

Fresh Air. Keep the bedroom window open at night and during the day when the baby is sleeping in the room. Put the baby out of doors for an hour or so during the warm part of the day for its nap.

Bathing. Bathe the baby daily for the first eight months to one year. Give a warm sponge bath in a warm room. Follow the warm sponge with a cool rapid sponging and then a brisk drying with a towel to add to the value of the bath.

Bowels. A baby's bowels should move every day. If they do not, find out from your doctor the reason and have it remedied.

Nose and Throat. Never allow the baby's nose to run. Clean it out four or five times daily with white vaseline on cotton swabs. Whenever the baby is taken out-of-doors during the winter vaseline should be used in the nose before-hand.

Clothes. Always have plenty of dry, warm clothes on the baby, especially when out-of-doors for its nap. Keep the head covered with a hood which has some warmth, not a perforated piece of fancy work. If the wind is blowing cover the baby's face with a thin, closely woven veil. Older children should always have their feet dry and warm. Do not bundle up the child's neck and let it wear thin shoes and stockings.—University of Nebraska Health Series.

POPULAR MECHANICS

Softening and Hardening Iron.

Some cast iron is chilled in the process of making until it is almost impossible to drill or work it in any way. This may be very easily overcome by treating it in the following way: Take the cast iron and heat it to a little above a cherry red, take it from the fire and place a piece of sulphur on the place to be drilled. If the iron gets too cold place it on the fire again, just keeping it above a cherry red. Continue to throw sulphur on it until it becomes soft enough to drill.

Cast iron may be hardened in the following way: Heat it to a cherry red; then sprinkle it with cyanide of potassium. Then heat the iron again to a little above a red. The iron should then be dipped in water and cooled. A rod treated in this way should be hard enough to resist the cut of a file and upon breaking it should show that the hardening has penetrated to the interior. The file should not cut the interior any easier than it did the outside.

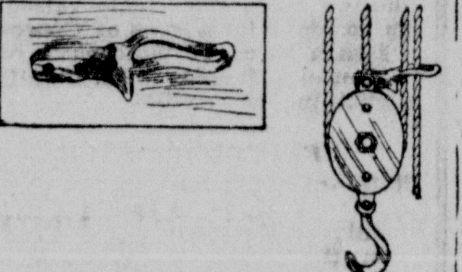

Wrought iron may also be case hardened in the same way.

Care of Spark Plugs.

When a spark plug refuses to work, none of the parts being broken, the trouble is generally due to a small piece of carbon lodged between the points, or the porcelain inside the plug has become coated with carbon. Carbon, being a conductor of electricity, the current travels through the carbon instead of jumping the gap and making a spark. The remedy is to remove the carbon. This may be done by brushing the carbon off the porcelain after soaking it in kerosene, or the porcelain may be removed from the plug and wiped clean with a cloth wet with kerosene. When the porcelain is replaced the nut should not be screwed down very tight. If screwed too tight the porcelain will crack when the engine becomes hot. After replacing the porcelain adjust the spark gap to the thickness of a smooth dime.

Safety Device For Platforms.

A large percentage of the accidents that happen to painters and other workmen working on platforms that are suspended by block and tackle occur when the fall rope slips from the hands of one of the workers, and to prevent just such accidents as this a simple and apparently effective device has been invented. It consists of a steel loop with a solid end through which the bolt at the top of the block passes, forming a pivoted connection, with the loop end free to swing up or down. The fall rope and the adjacent rope pass through the loop. At the inner end the loop is large enough to permit the ropes to work freely, but tapers to a tight fit at the outer end. In case a workman loses his hold on the fall rope the friction of the rope causes the loop to fly upward, when the fall rope is forced into the small end of the loop and holds the platform securely.

URGE U. S. TO COLONIZE UNEMPLOYED.

San Francisco, Aug. 4.—The opening of federal lands, the buying by the government of idle districts under bond issue, and the colonizing of unemployed from cities is urged on the government by many delegates at the Congress of State Commissioners on unemployment. It is understood that this plan has been considered by the department of labor. The plan, it is pointed out, would permit the large number of families that are impoverished in times of industrial depression to "go back to the soil" under federal patronage. In these tracts which the government could purchase reasonably, the settlers could make at least a decent living from the start, and eventually own their own land, under an easy-payment system. Secretary Wilson of the department of labor, who is presiding at the Congress, is one of the strongest advocates of practical aid for the unemployed.

FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE

By The Associated Press.)

Berlin, July 28.—(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)—A writer in the Cologne Gazette gives a description of a raid by a Zepelin on the British coast. He says:

It was barely growing dusk when Lieut. Commander X—, in command of L— (L. stands for Luftschiff, airship), received an order to cruise on the morrow in a north-westerly direction in the latitude of Terschelling. He gave the necessary orders, and next morning, early, entered the hangar. The crew of two deck officers and twelve non-commissioned officers, was already at work with a group of men under the orders of the officer of the guard.

The Lieutenant looked to see that everything was in order. Sailors in the gondolas tested the motors, their looks betraying their love for the engines under their care. One of the officers satisfied himself that the supply of petrol was complete, while the other superintended the carriage of bombs and incendiary missiles into the gondolas.

The skipper climbed in and after a brief inspection, expressed his satisfaction with a nod, and then descended to the ground.

There was silence in the great hall. The men who hold down the vessel were in their places. The crew were at their stations.

The officer in charge reported 'all in order' to the skipper who called out instructions to discharge the water ballast. There was a rush of water, and the vessel gradually rose above her props and floated.

The captain paced her whole length, scanning her with careful eye. Then he climbed into the front gondola and ordered her to be taken out. The lieutenant repeated the order 'Airship Forward, and the men with the mooring ropes towed her into the open. A gust of wind outside caused her to sway. She tugged at her mooring ropes like an impatient steed champing at its bit.

A cry of 'Attention', a long shrill blast from the boatswain's whistle, the last ropes were dropped, and almost simultaneously the engine-room telegraph signaled 'motors full speed ahead.'

With a noise like thunder the propellers sprang into life, the vessel shot forward and upwards.

The forward gondalla resembled nothing so much as the bridge of a warship, and as in the chart house of a cruiser, so the skipper now bent over his maps.

The ship in its ascent soon cleaved her way through banks of clouds. The sun shining through them upon the sea facilitated steering. With his eyes upon the shadow of the vessel and a piece of wood hanging loose at the end of a string, the skipper was able to reckon his speed and the strength of the wind. If the weather is dull and the airship is above open water, only practice and seamanlike instinct can help the commander to a knowledge of his position. He must also reckon not only with the prevailing wind but with threatening changes. A strong current from the direction of home might make his return very difficult.

This time, however, the vessel advanced in a straight line to the northwest. A number of fishing vessels could be seen at sea, all flying the Dutch flag, but the skipper thought his own thoughts. He knows that British fishermen even close under their own coasts now seldom fly anything but the Dutch colors.

By three p. m. his mission was at an end. He had received orders to be back at the hangar before dusk, but the weather being so favorable, he telegraphically asked permission to act on his own initiative, and profit by the opportunity. 'Agreed' was the reply.

Continuing his flight to the northwest he determined to deliver a blow against the English coast. It was yet twilight when he approached England and ascended to a height of 1800 meters in order to keep out of sight of the watchful eyes on board England's guard ships. Through a rift in the clouds a destroyer could be seen making the round of the guardships. There was nothing yet to be seen of the land, but a blackish mistiness on the distant horizon was recognized by trained eyes as smoke from the chimneys of an industrial district. The skipper knew that he had steered a true course, and that his destinuation, a harbor with enemy dock yards.

He remained above the clouds until dark, then pushing on to the coast, he detected in the dying daylight the two moles marking the mouth of the river which he was seeking. Almost simultaneously came flashes of artillery fire from below. The rudder swung around, and steering past the attacking fortress, the airship was over the yards, arsenals, and munition factories. The airship's gunner lay on his face by the sighting apparatus, and fired at the targets over which he was being steered. There were now flashes beneath us which did not proceed from the enemy artillery. The displacement of air, due to a tremendous explosion, was felt in the gondola. Below us a large factory was seen to collapse upon itself. The windows of the other workshops suddenly became dark.

The men in the gondolas were under the impression that they could see policemen hurrying through the streets with cries of warning, because house after house was suddenly swallowed in darkness until the town and suburbs were in complete obscurity.

But the work was done. After making observations for half an hour the return journey was begun. The weather was clearer but bitterly cold. The skipper sank to an altitude of only 100 meters above Helligoland, and was helped by the moonlight along the German coast. Above Norderney the maps were again requisitioned, and then straight overland for the hangar."

TROT PASSED UP FOR CANTER

SAY DANCING MASTERS.

Berkeley, Calif., Aug. 4.—The perfection of the canter as the latest thing in dancing is occupying the attention of the American Association of Masters of Dancing, which met here today. That the trots are altogether passe, impossible and entirely outclassed, is the general view of these authorities. In fact, the canter has already shelved the trot. The dancing masters will try out the varieties of canter and decree which will be adopted as the real thing.

Misses Hazel and Ida Widmayer will go to Carlville today to be guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Trabue.

HARRY N. MOSIER'S BODY FOUND FLOATING IN RIVER

Inquest Held at Mercedosia Wednesday Revealed Identity—Man Became Suddenly Ill and Fell From Boat at Beardstown Sunday—Efforts to Recover the Body Futile Then.

The body of Harry N. Mosier, of Peoria, who was drowned Sunday near Beardstown, was found by Eli Surratt near Mercedosia Wednesday morning. Mosier was drowned at the mouth of Coal Creek, about four miles below Beardstown, and his body was found about fifteen miles from that place. Surratt was going up the river in a motor boat with his son, when he discovered the floating body. He summoned another farmer in the vicinity, William Crystal, and together they took the body to Mercedosia.

The body was identified by means of a key ring with the dead man's name on it. Later a man who said he lived at Bath also identified the body as that of Mosier. This man said he had known Mosier from boyhood, and that he was the son of a former physician located in Bath.

Mayor Berger, of Mercedosia, called up John McLean, of Beardstown, and was told by McLean that Mosier was a resident of Peoria. Mayor Berger also notified Coroner Wright, who went to Mercedosia Wednesday and held an inquest in the afternoon.

When the body was first discovered a rumor started that the man had been murdered. It was said there was a wound in the back of the head. It developed, however, that Mosier was subject to epileptic fits and it is probable that he had one of these fits and fell from the boat and was drowned.

Jury Began Inquest.

The following jury was chosen to inquire into the cause of death: John Vanderlip, foreman; L. R. Berger, clerk; Dave Brakeville, Charles Winningham, Brac Follis and Gus Brakeville.

The testimony of J. W. Shadrick and his wife was the most important that was heard by the jury. Mosier had been engaged in the fishing business with Shadrick for some time. For the past few weeks he has been making his home with the Shadricks on a houseboat.

According to the testimony Mosier went out about 7:30 o'clock Sunday morning to attend to some fish traps. He was seized with an epileptic fit and fell forward into the river and disappeared. Shadrick immediately instituted a search for the body, but was unable to find it. The witness said that Mosier had formerly resided in Peoria, where he was employed in the restaurant of W. C. Shuter. According to Shadrick the dead man had about $300 in a Peoria bank. Mosier was about 37 years old.

After hearing the evidence the jury returned the following verdict: "We, the undersigned jurors, sworn to inquire into the death of Harry N. Mosier on oath do find that he came to his death by falling out of a boat by having an epileptic fit, Monday, August 2d, 1915, near the mouth of Coal Creek, about four miles south of Beardstown, Cass county, Illinois."

MODERN WOODMEN RECEIVING MANY NEW MEMBERS NOW

Thirty-one Added to Roll of Camp 912 at Last Meeting—Figures Show General Growth of the Order.

The Modern Woodmen of America are growing in a gratifying manner. While the growth is apparent throughout the entire country the local branches of the order are not lying dormant. Tuesday evening Camp 912 had an initiation at which time 31 new members were taken into the order. The members of the camp have been working on the class for some time and much of the credit for its success is due to the efforts of the camp deputy, W. A. Moore. After work was conferred a social hour was enjoyed and refreshments were served. The committee in charge of the refreshments was composed of Sam C. Fernandes, Robert C. Asher and J. Earl Vasconcellos.

A few years ago when the rate question came up in the Modern Woodmen it created a great disturbance in the ranks of the order. Some of the most faithful members were afraid that all the discussion would result in a great loss of members and might even wreck the order. Happily this trouble passed and the growth of the order in the past few months has been the greatest in its history.

To show what is being done, one only has to compare the figures of the last two years with those of the present year. In May 1913 there were 3,668 new members added, and in May 1914 there were 3,974 added. For May 1915 the number is 6,531.

For the first nine months of 1913, the new members taken in were 29,232. In the first nine months of 1914 the number was 28,632. For the first five months of 1915 the total reaches 31,622.

ROMANCE WILL FIGURE IN MOTION PICTURES OF CITY

Mock Wedding of Jacksonville Young People Will Be Feature of Film to Be Made Friday.

Jacksonville citizens are again to be in motion pictures if the plans work out which Springfield film men, under the direction of the Chamber of Commerce, have under contemplation. A romance, in which John Larson and Miss Millicent Rowe, will be principal characters will be enacted, and various scenes collected during the day will make up the film, which is to be made Friday.

The wedding of Mr. Larson and Miss Rowe will have its beginning at Nichols park where an auto accident takes place and Mr. Larson is injured and taken to Passavant hospital. Miss Rowe will visit him there and the culmination of the affection will be the wedding at Colonial Inn in which members of the Delta Dancing club will participate. Miss Alice Hastings, of Honolulu, will be maid of honor, Marcy Osborne, groomsmen and Carl H. Weber, the minister. It will be a full dress affair. The wedding trip will be a part of the film and in its entirety promises to be of especial interest. As mentioned above various business houses and schools will be included in the list of pictures, which will be shown at Scott's theater Friday, Aug. 13. The film will become the property of the Chamber of Commerce and will be used at various times for use when conventions are held here or similar gatherings. W. M. Deake is director of the movies and D. M. Primm is camera man. The name of the firm is the Bon Feature Picture company.

When the concrete is relaid about the well it will be several inches higher than heretofore. Men are also at work in the park giving the trees a much needed trimming.

HAS VISITED BIG FARM OF GRAND DUKE MICHAEL

J. A. Groves Says Russian Who Has Just Returned to Petrograd Has Great Interest in Agriculture — Owns Vast Estate.

J. A. Groves, of this city, has been much interested in the statement in a European dispatch that Grand Duke Michael has returned to Petrograd. Next to the czar, he is next in succession to the throne. For some years he has been accounted almost an exile because he married a Russian actress instead of a member of the nobility. The perilous times through which his country is passing have brought him to public notice again and it is understood that he has placed a large portion of his vast wealth at the disposal of the government.

Mr. Groves is interested in the announcement because when he was in Russia several years ago he was several times on the great estate belonging to the grand duke. The estate is in the northern part of what is known as southern Russia, about two hundred miles from Odessa. The grand duke has shown his interest in the people by the establishment of a hospital there and by the building of a school. Sometime ago he established, too, an experimental station for the development of agriculture and it was in this connection that Mr. Groves visited the farm. The estate is of such size that the grand duke operates a short railroad of his own to convey the wheat raised on his property to the city a few miles distant.

Jacksonville lodge No. 570 A. F. & A. M. will hold a stated meeting tonight at 7:30. Visiting brethren welcome.

Mrs. Emma Elizabeth Caldwell, died Wednesday morning at three o'clock, at the family residence in Franklin. Mrs. Caldwell suffered a stroke of paralysis at 9 o'clock Saturday morning. She had gone to the home of a neighbor and became ill while she was returning home. She soon lapsed into unconsciousness and remained in that condition until death called her. Up to the time of her last illness, she had enjoyed comparatively good health.

Her maiden name was Emma Elizabeth Corrington, a daughter of the late John Corrington, residing in the eastern part of the county. She was born March 9, 1853. She was twice married. Her first marriage was to Jacob H. Strawn, July 30, 1872. To this union four children were born: Clifton, Waverly, John B. Strawn, and Mrs. Lora S. Seymour, Franklin, and Mrs. J. Walton Ward, of Beardstown. Mr. Strawn died Jan. 24, 1894.

Her second marriage was to Leander Akers Caldwell, March 3, 1898. He survives her. She also leaves two step children, Mrs. John Paton and Mrs. Byron L. ANNUAL NORTONVILLE PICNIC PROVES A SUCCESSFUL EVENT

Congressman Henry T. Rainey Was Principal Speaker of the Day. Winners in Horse Show.

The annual Nortonville fish fry and burgoo was held Wednesday. Because of the rainy weather and bad condition of the roads the crowd was not so large as usual. This however did not interfere with the splendid program that the committee had arranged, nor did it interfere with the many good things to eat which are always prepared by skillful hands. The program of entertainment was ample and the principal speaker of the occasion was Congressman Henry T. Rainey, who spoke about the European war.

Congressman Rainey's address was heard with unusual interest. He voiced the opinion that the warring nations would eventually wear themselves out, and that sooner or later they would sue for peace. He emphasized the important part the United States would take when it came to making peace terms, as it was the only really great nation that was not a participant in the struggle. He thought that when negotiations were started for peace, that it would not be a peace treaty that was likely to be broken by any nation and at any time, but would be lasting and far-reaching in its world-wide influence.

STATE HOSPITAL PATIENT DIED SUDDENLY

Jury Declares Paralysis Brought Death to Herman Notzke.

Herman Notzke, a patient at Jacksonville State Hospital, died Tuesday evening about 9 o'clock. The circumstances surrounding his death were such that it was deemed best to hold an inquest. Coroner Wright was in Meredosia holding an inquest and Deputy Coroner J. G. Reynolds was notified. He emphasized the following jury to inquire into the cause of death.

Thomas Stevenson, foreman, M. C. Hook, clerk; M. H. Havenhill, A. E. Williamson, Edgar Fanning and W. C. Guthrie. The testimony of two attendants, B. V. Acklin and Morgan, and Dr. E. J. Strickler, was heard and the jury returned a verdict, giving paralysis as the cause of death.

The deceased was a patient from Pekin and was about 50 years of age at the time of his death.

SUIT FOR DIVORCE.

John M. Butler yesterday filed in behalf of Mrs. Emma B. VanLaningham a suit for divorce directed against Clarence VanLaningham. They were married in April of 1912 and Mrs. VanLaningham declares that soon afterward her husband began to treat her with cruelty. His conduct toward her she alleges became such that divorce is necessary, and she has also asked for an injunction to prevent her husband from disposing of his property in accordance with a threat he is said to have made. According to the declaration Mr. VanLaningham owns a residence property in Mason City and has personal property consisting principally of horses and cattle to a value of $1,000.
